The following is the full text of the mespage :- "In my Annual Message to Congress, at opening the 2nd Session of the present Geogress, in December, 1871, I recommended the legislation necessary on the part of the United States, to bring into operation the article of the Treaty of Wesbington, of May eth. 1871, relative to the Fisheries, and to other matters touching on the relations of the United States towards the British and American possessions, to become operative as soon sproper legislation should be had on the per of Great Britain and its possessions. Signature of Great Britain and its possessions. Signature of Great Britain and not possessions had not then been had, and noting, prior to the meeting of Congress, in Becamber last, received official information of the consideration by Great Britain and the possessions of the legislation tecessury that the possessions of the legislation necessary, on their part to bring shess articles into operation, I communicated the fact to Congres in my annual message at the opening of the present setaion, and a reviewed recommendation for your early adoption of legislations as necessary on tion in the same direction, as necessary on the part of this Government. The near approach of the end of the session induces me again to argently call your attention to the mportance of this legislation on the part of longress. It must be remembered that the treaty of Washington resulted from an overture on the part of Great Britain to an overture on the part of Great Britain to treat with reference to fisheries on the coast of Her Mrjeaty's possessions in North America, and other questions between them affecting the relations of the United States towards these possessions. To this overture a reply was made on the part of this Government, that while appreciating the importance of a friendly and complete understanding between the two Governments with retrance to the subjects specially suggested by the British Jovernment, it was thought that the removal of differences out of what were generally known as the Alabama claims was essential to the retoration of cordial and amicable in the retoration of cordial amicable in the retoration of cordial and amicable in the retoration of cordial amicable in the re ally known as the Alabama claims was essential to the restoration of cordial and amicable relations between the two Governments, and the essent of this Government to treat on the subject of the fisheries was made dependent in the assent of Great Britain to allow a Joint Constitution, which it had proposed on the question suggested by that Government to another suggested by that Government as a settlement. Both clauses of the question and these relating to the Alaba a Claims and the the Morth Western waters boundary, commonly known as the Sin Juan question have been disposed of in pursuance of the terms of the treaty. Those relating to the Fisheries were made by the terms of the treaty to depend upon the legislation which the constitution of the respective Governments made measure to carry these provisions into effect. Great Britain had submitted. The Tribunal of Gosta has made an award in favour of the United States on the North-western boundary lines. I cannot urge too strongly the importance of your early consideration of the legislation that may be necessary on the part of the Government. In addition to the claims as that Areat Britain may have on the good faith of this Government to consider legislation

Victoria would not be a city if it had not its St. Gites, and accordingly, we find a quarter in which are congregated in written bevels the most debased of the population, chiefly composed of Chintes and idiam. Drunkenness and vice are here too frequently offensively exhibited and a sat tale of immorality night be told. Across the harbour, and immediately adjoining the city, there is an Iddian reserve, which, with mistaken zeal for their interests, some of their friends and welldian reserve, which, with mistaken seal for their interests, some of their friends and well-wishest strength oppose being surrendered by the Indians, on the ground that they must have a place in which so lodge or camp when they come to trade. From what I saw, I should say it were better for them that they never had anything to Insde but subsist as their forefa hers did, rather than come under the demoralising influence of their visit to the city—while the uperturb presented to the hites, and especially to those of tender years is destruction to that delicacy of feeling which it should be our greatest sfort to preserve.
